

MEDICAL EVACUATION INSURANCE PROVIDERS

Medical evacuation insurance is required to participate on ALL Ice Axe expeditions. When selecting a policy, please make sure they insure a) the region to which you're traveling, b) ski mountaineering-which involves the use of ropes, crampons, ice axes and is a guided activity. Ski mountaineering is not considered the same as skiing by many insurers, and you need to confirm that they will cover this activity. It is also recommended that your policy cover search and rescue.

$200,000 USD: required for the Antarctic Peninsula Ski Cruise

$300,000 USD: required for Last Degree expeditions

$100,000 USD: required for all other expeditions

Trip Cancellation Insurance is not required but we enforce a strict refund policy and strongly advise you to purchase Trip Cancellation and Interruption Insurance to protect yourself against an event which may force you to cancel your trip or leave an experience early.

We've created this list of insurance providers to assist you in researching medical evacuation policies available. As our expertise lies in ski expeditions – not in the nuances of insurance – we strongly recommend that you address specific questions to your insurance agent and take time to thoroughly understand the policy you purchase and its exclusions. Since we cannot confirm each client's policy individually, it is your responsibility to make sure your policy will cover you while you participate in your activities of choice on the expedition. You are welcome to seek out other insurance options, as these are only recommendations.
